

MONTE PASUBIO

On the way to Pasubio mountain a long line of soldiers, slowly they climbed the march of those who will not return and the march of who go to die up there

(but) the alpine soldiers cannot be afraid
bomb boromb bomb, bomb bomb boromb bomb
(no) the alpine soldiers cannot be afraid
bomb boromb bomb, bomb bomb boromb bomb

Near the top of Pasubio mountain
'neath the peaks they locate a mine but the alpine soldiers they dig and dream of returning home to their loved ones.

(but) the alpine soldiers cannot be afraid
bomb boromb bomb, bomb bomb boromb bomb
(no) the alpine soldiers cannot be afraid
bomb boromb bomb, bomb bomb boromb bomb

On the way to Pasubio mountain
there is only a cross that remains

You no longer can hear a single voice but only the wind kissing the flowers

Roberto brought this song to the Atlantic Crossing CD as well. This is a representation of Italy during WW1. This effort was one of the harshest, and is documented in various places including the web, and this Smithsonian piece:

<http://www.smithsonianmag.com/history/most-treacherous-battle-world-war-i-italian-mountains-180959076/>